

These mountains are inhabited by the Toubou people, a very particular race where it is wise to deal with people in a very polite manner if you don't like to feel yourself to be around a sharp sliver of steel. Some of the ladies are very comely, watch it, they all have a foot long knife with the handle nicely situated between their breasts. They are tall, lithe people that can go for days without water while trekking in their mountains and then they can absorb gallons of it like a camel. Since the Romans wrote about them they have been known as the greatest pillagers of the Sahara, no Arab was safe from them and even the war-like Touareg people were very wary of them. If you want to go to a country where racism is rife, go to Tibesti. For a Toubou no one is better than, maybe, another Toubou and he is also very wary of his wife and her long knife. I would not be surprised if they were responsible for the greatest slavery traffic ever to the Egyptians and Arabs as they were well situated between the south-Saharan black populations and the buyers to the North. Fascinating people, I wonder what happened to them, Gaddafi tried to murder them all.

Fortunately the Arab Dhow shipbuilding had been invented before Muhammed's massacre on the human mind and, from the 10th century, with these vessels, Arabs from the Middle East sailed down the African coast to latitude 10-15° south. Another slave traffic route was thus established and the African East coast became known for white and black ivory and whatever people think of that commerce today, the fact remains. The people that are called the 'Founding Fathers' of the American constitution and proclaimed that human beings are born equal did not mind slavery at all, we don't even know whether it was considered in those days as a commercial occupation and slaves were considered as some kind of human cattle. Trust the Europeans, when they got stuck in to the slavery business the turnover increased sharply with the demand from the Caribbean islands and the southern states of North America. However, the keeping of slaves has never been a really profitable business as they take a lot more looking after than cattle and by about 1800 do-gooder notions in England to declare slavery illegal did not meet with much resistance and 50 years later slaves were not used anymore except in Africa and Arab countries.

By that time Africa had been the main source for slave procurement for the last 10 000 years.

So far we have had a grosso modo look at the world's populations and racism was not much on the menu. The reason for that is, of course, that most racism ideas are preponderantly present between black and white races where accusations from both sides could fill many books. I won't deal with stories that white colonialism has retarded the black African population nor bother about the percentage of black prisoners in the world's prisons' populations. I'd rather deal with known undisputable facts such as the amount of patents taken out by Israel since 1960 and by Saudite Arabia. Don't bother googling, we all know that the Israeli count is tremendous and the Arab achievement is zero. Three or four million Israelis with little money surrounded and hated by a few hundred million Arabs are scientifically far superior to their neighbours who have more money that they know what to do with. Who are the more intelligent people is a question that the Human Rights people do not want to be asked but I will answer it all the same: The Arabs are a bunch of morons who have sacrificed their
