

African bloodbath began and has not diminished until today. 'Freedom' fighters were sponsored and inculcated by the Soviets. And while the instructors were about, the Russian psychologists added a good dash of racism. So were created the Kenyattas of the Mau-mau and the Mugabes of murdered Matabele. Cultural differences between whites and blacks may exist but their political aspirations are identical. Freedom fighters are only interested in their very own, personal freedom.

And now, today, what has been achieved by these black libertarians after 60 years of freedom, financially sponsored by European taxpayers and socialist politicians. I would say that 60% of the black African population have been influenced to hate the Whites because they are supposed to be the cause of all their troubles.

In South Africa, despite many hiccups, the first black government seemed to start off well and the white people who overwhelmingly had voted 'Yes' (72%) in 1992 for a black government must have been pleased that everything went so well. Hélas, it only went well with Mr. Mandela, when he, the only black president in Africa to willingly leave his post, the black freedom fighting spirit took over and the 72% white yes voters began to regret. Black did not turn out to be beautiful and why should it? Black people have been the main population to furnish slaves for the last 10 000 years and not one black chief has ever lifted a finger to protect 'his' people. Europeans began to stop slavery almost 200 years ago but Arab people still buy slaves from sub-Saharan black people.

Black people never had to work and invent things to stay alive. Benign Africa looked after them. From the little we know we can gather that for the last 10 000 years nothing new was invented, tool- or agriculture-wise. Writing remained unknown, even a religion was not invented (so much the better). When the ruins of Zimbabwe were discovered, the surrounding people could not give any information about its existence although the place must have been inhabited 300 years before. Verbal memory means nothing. Mapungubwe does not give much information either. Africa as a continent with its millions of inhabitants remained devoid of human inventions. Chiefs remained chiefs from father to son, sold their people when buyers presented themselves, accumulated cattle that depleted their home range. Today white people are blamed for 3 centuries of suppression of black people but it seems to me that that the hundred years of colonial enterprise has been the most peaceful period in Africa.

It would seem that, no, not seem; black people cannot govern a European inspired country in Africa. All ex-colonies have degraded into strife, hunger and blood and South Africa, which used to be a better functioning country than many European ones is being ruined through black inspired usury. It is not surprising that the white 'yes' voters of 1992 who were willing to let the black people 'have a go at government' now are not too happy when the post, telephone, electricity supply systems of their country are disintegrating and blame the 'stupid and corrupt blacks'.

Plenty of fertiliser for a flourishing Racism plant.

Yet the black people, even the newly wealthy, continue to blame the white people for the misery in which most of the black people find themselves but the great murderer of Africa, Jozef Stalin in 1950, has been forgotten, although his Kalashnikovs have multiplied a million fold.
